Forecast Analysis

Gordon Ramsey | Target date: November 7, 2026

Overall Forecast

This period is fundamentally about the mind and its place in the world being rewired, with the daily-work self and the home foundation held in the same frame. Two themes carry the evidence. The first centers on Mercury, which rules the Ascendant and the fourth house. It sits in the seventh house and is reached by every kind of timing: transits, directions, progressions and the current Zodiacal Releasing level. Mercury is lower in Power than the chart's average but more harmonious than the chart's average net, so it tends to be a sensitive, open channel rather than a forceful one. Uranus in the Ascendant sign opposes it, Neptune and Pluto make easier contacts to it, and Solar Arc midpoint pictures cluster around Mercury's pairings with the Sun and Venus. Together these ▶ suggest new ideas about how you present yourself, how you work, and how you stand with partners and the public, with change arriving in a distinctly unconventional way. The second theme is the Sun and Venus in the sixth house, with Mars, the Zodiacal Releasing lord. The Sun is above average in Power and in net harmony. Its identity is tied to work, service and daily routine, and it is being directed through the eighth house of endings and shared resources. Venus is the Year Lord. These contacts are mostly separating, so earlier changes in work and values are being absorbed rather than begun. Secondary and quieter is Saturn in the tenth house. It is heavily discordant, and several soft contacts to it are separating. Career pressure is present but steadier than the mental and personal turn.

Annual Profection

The year profects to the twelfth house, Taurus, so the emphasis falls on what works behind the scenes: retreat, hidden matters, solitude and the unseen. Venus is Year Lord. It sits in the sixth house in Scorpio, so the quiet inner processing of this year is tied to work, service and daily routines, and Venus also rules the fifth house, which brings creativity and pleasure into the story. Venus is below average in Power but more harmonious than the chart's average net, a gentle lord that works through tact rather than force. The Sun profects to the fifth house and the Moon to the third. The Midheaven profects to the eighth house, ruled by Saturn. Mercury transmits to both Venus and the Sun, which links thought and communication directly to the Year Lord and the identity. The year closes on November 8, 2026.

Transits

The transits are led by Uranus in the first house, applying to a sextile with Jupiter, with its next exact date on November 12, 2026, and to an opposition with Mercury, next exact on December 13, 2026. This is the most active transit story: restless, original thinking in the personal sphere, with a sudden idea or change of direction pulling against settled partnership or communication patterns. Pluto's opposition to Jupiter is also applying, with its next exact pass on December 27, 2026, and it adds depth and pressure around beliefs, learning and ambition. Neptune's trine to Mercury and its trine to Jupiter are separating but return, on February 21, 2027 and March 28, 2027, so they stay a supportive, imaginative undertone. Jupiter's contacts to the Ascendant, Saturn and Neptune are separating after peaks in late October, and they return, on January 25, 2027 and February 2, 2027. Saturn's trine to Jupiter is just building. Taken together, the transits favor reorientation of ideas, with Jupiter's separating contacts showing growth being absorbed.

Progressions & Directions

The progressed and directed picture centers on exactness arriving through the end of the year. The directed Ascendant is at a very tight midpoint position between Jupiter and Mars, with its next exact date on November 24, 2026. This is a notable personal signal, mixing expansion with drive, and it falls in the third house of communication. The directed Uranus quincunx to the Ascendant is also very tight and applying, exact on December 2, 2026. It asks you to adjust how you present yourself to a restless inner need for independence. The directed Moon sits on Mercury's midpoint pairings with Venus and the Sun, exact on December 15, 2026 and December 28, 2026. Mood, home and daily rhythm are thus tied to thought, values and identity. The directed Saturn and Uranus approach the same Mercury pairings in February and March 2027, so this theme keeps developing. Meanwhile the Sun's progressed trine to Mars and sextile to Venus, and directed Mars and Venus contacts to the Sun, are separating, with exact peaks in early 2026. The progressed Mars parallel to Saturn, next exact July 22, 2027, is a long, slow pressure. Saturn in the tenth house stays the demanding point of the picture.

Longer Timing Periods

The long chapter is Mars in Scorpio, sixth house, released from the Lot of Fortune. It places work, service and daily effort at the heart of this long phase, which runs to December 18, 2027. Within it, the Sun in Leo, in the third house, has governed since August 25, 2026, bringing communication, learning and mental interests forward. Mercury's third-level period in Virgo runs from October 12, 2026 to December 1, 2026. Mars in Aries has just begun, running only from November 7, 2026 to November 10, 2026, a brief spur toward groups, friends and shared hopes.

Timing & Confirmation

The strongest confirmation falls on Mercury and its houses. Zodiacal Releasing, with Mercury as the third-level lord, transit and the combined progression and Solar Arc line all reach it. These are three genuinely distinct lines on one planet, which rules the first and fourth houses. The picture is therefore about how you think and speak about yourself and your foundations, with Uranus's opposition, still applying, as the live edge. The Sun and Venus are reached by two lines: Zodiacal Releasing and the progression and Solar Arc line for the Sun, and Annual Profection and the progression and Solar Arc line for Venus. Their contacts are mostly separating, which suggests that earlier changes are being absorbed while the Mercury story builds. Mars is the long-chapter lord, and it is reached by Zodiacal Releasing and the progression and Solar Arc line, with its tight parallel to Saturn coming back on July 22, 2027. Jupiter is confirmed by transit and the directed line together, with the Ascendant midpoint exact on November 24, 2026. The Moon and Saturn rest on the progression and Solar Arc line alone, and Saturn also draws transit contacts. Several tight exact dates cluster from November 12, 2026 through December 28, 2026. Nothing here guarantees a specific event, but it points to a sustained turn.
